Students show off skills at the Learning Centre

Over 200 students from 11 government schools across the state will be showing and sharing their knowledge in agriculture, horticulture and STEM learning at the Royal Adelaide Show, which starts tomorrow.

The Learning Centre is an interactive space for children, their families and the general public to participate in a number of fun and educational activities and demonstrations run by a mix of specialised teachers and their students.

Along with the regular petting of puppies, sheep shearing and churning of butter, some new demonstrations have been thrown in the mix such as goat milking, animal handling and wine making and crushing.

Schools involved in the Learning Centre:
Australian Science and Mathematics School
Birdwood High School
Bordertown High School
Clare High School
Gladstone High School
Karoonda Area School
Lucindale Area School
Nuriootpa Area School
Open Access College
Playford International College
Urrbrae Agricultural High School

Background

The Learning Centre will be open Friday 31 August to Sunday 9 September from 9am to 5.15pm in the Old Ram Shed on the Western Boulevard.

Quotes attributable to Executive Director Strategic Policy and External Relations, Karen Weston

There's always something new and exciting in the Learning Centre and I encourage everyone to check out the great work our students and teachers are doing.

It's great to see the number of regional and metro schools involved in the Learning Centre has grown and it is a wonderful experience seeing children, young people and their families engage with the school teams.

There are also a number of other schools presenting work in the Royal Show, so get along and support their contributions.

Our ongoing participation in the Royal Adelaide Show supports growth in learning for all students as we strive towards building a world class education system.
